To whom it may concern:

Eric Aroca came to speak to my Latinos in Action class about his personal struggles and how he was able to overcome them to become a successful professional.

His presentation definitely enhanced the unit we were covering on professionalism and what it means to be a professional in our society today. Also, with his four step process to success he motivated my students to not let anything stop them from achieving their dreams. In addition, he shared his personal experiences and how he achieved success and gave my students tips on how to succeed too.

His presentation was engaging and really hit home for my students. I highly recommend him.

Respectfully,

Daisy Espinoza
