To whom it may concern:

It is with honor that I take a moment and tell you about my colleague Eric Aroca. Eric and I have worked together for over a year and in whatever capacity he was fulfilling he did it with a level of expertise that was without peer.

Eric demonstrated his abilities as a compassionate thoughtful trainer where students learning was the goal. He diligently ensured that all understood the concepts presented and when called upon in the development of new trainers he excelled at this task. He shared his secrets with those trainer candidates to allow for growth and development in the delivery of the curriculum they were tasked to deliver. Eric's natural ability to speak in front of groups is evident by his delivery of the training materials he was empowered to present. He has a keen sense and listened carefully to what the customer needed to ensure a successful outcome.

Eric and I worked together on several projects where we translated existing materials into Spanish. He worked hard within the scope and perimeters necessary so the product(s) translated were easily understandable.

Whatever Eric chooses to undertake please know that you will get a dedicated individual that has your success in mind.

Sincerely,

Marie H. Tasker
